NATIONAL CONTEXT

In 2017, the Global Estimates of Modern Slavery were produced by the International Labour Organization and the Walk Free Foundation in partnership with the International Organization for Migration.¹ According to the Global Estimates, at any given time in 2016, an estimated 40.3 million people were in modern slavery, including 24.9 million in forced labour.

Ukraine

44,657,704 population	$8,272 GDP (ppp)	54.38/100 vulnerability to modern slavery
286,000 estimated number of people living in modern slavery	6.41/1000 estimated proportion of population living in modern slavery	BB government response rating

The Global Slavery Index, published by the Walk Free Foundation,² estimates the percentage of countries population suffering from conditions of modern slavery and ranked countries from 1 to 167 (1 being the country with the highest percentage). In 2018, Ukraine ranked 49/167 on the Prevalence Index Rank. It translates to the estimated 286,000 people living in modern slavery.

Ukraine's relatively poor ranking reflects the ongoing political turmoil in the far east of the country, with increased risks of forced labour, the recruitment of children for armed conflict, and the forced migration and potential exploitation of the workforce.

POLICIES AND CONTROLS

Counter-party Risk Assessment

The risk of modern slavery in Ferrexpo's supply chain is routinely considered as part of the Group's risk assessment process. There are no operations within the Ferrexpo Group which have been assessed as having a high or medium degree of risk of involuntary labour in any form occurring.

The Group performs due diligence checks on an ongoing basis to detect, assess and manage potential third-party risks, which include looking for evidence or suspicion of human rights abuses. Suppliers identified as "high risk", for whatever reason, are separately reviewed on a regular basis by the Executive Compliance Committee ("ECC"), which decides whether a supplier should be used on certain conditions (such as more detailed checks and monitoring) or avoided altogether. In 2018, no signs of forced labour or human trafficking were identified at any of the Group's suppliers. Ferrexpo is including an anti-slavery and anti-trafficking clause into the contracts with the new and existing suppliers, with a right to terminate the contract in case of a breach of this clause. To date, 82.6% of the supplier contracts with the annual turnover above UAH 500,000 (approximately USD 19,000), including sale and purchase agreements, service agreements, and construction contracts, contain anti-slavery clauses.

In 2018, Ferrexpo has developed Business Partners' Code of Conduct, which will be rolled out in 2019. It sets out Ferrexpo's requirements to its counterparties, including those related to the human rights.

Compliance with Policies

Ferrexpo has a system of reporting any breaches of company policies (including the Code of Conduct which includes slavery and trafficking matters) available to all employees and counterparties. Ferrexpo Integrity Line is available at <http://ferrexpo.com/IntegrityLine> and by telephone, operated by an independent provider to ensure confidentiality. In case of a suspected breach by a supplier of an anti-slavery condition, Ferrexpo's compliance and internal audit departments will investigate and, if appropriate, the contract will be terminated.

As part of its risk mitigation policy Ferrexpo aims to have a diversity of source of supply in order to avoid excessive dependence on certain suppliers, so in most cases the Group is able to change suppliers if required.

In addition to training Ferrexpo's employees about the Group's Code of Conduct, Ferrexpo launched a specific e-learning module aimed at raising awareness of the modern slavery issue and the ways to identify the signs of it in the supply chain. To date, the total of 983 employees have been trained, of which 633 – in 2018. In November 2018, 38 employees with responsibility for procurement and managing suppliers received an additional face-to-face training session on modern slavery in the course of Ferrexpo Compliance Week.

ACTIONS TO BE CARRIED OUT IN 2019

The Company will continue monitoring its supply chain for signs of forced labour or human trafficking, and implementing its requirements in the field of human rights in its relationships with the suppliers in the course of implementation of the Business Partners' Code of Conduct.
