NATIONAL CONTEXT

In 2017, the International Labour Organization and the Walk Free Foundation in partnership with the International Organization for Migration published the Global Estimates of Modern Slavery.¹ According to the report, at any given time in 2016, an estimated 40.3 million people were in modern slavery, including 24.9 million in forced labour.

Ukraine

43,758,299 population	$9,233 GDP (ppp)	54.38/100 vulnerability to modern slavery
286,000 estimated number of people living in modern slavery	6.41/1000 estimated proportion of population living in modern slavery	BB government response rating

The Global Slavery Index, published by the Walk Free Foundation,² estimates the percentage of countries population suffering from conditions of modern slavery and ranked countries from 1 to 167 (1 being the country with the highest percentage). In 2018, Ukraine ranked 49/167 on the Prevalence Index Rank. It translates to the estimated 286,000 people living in modern slavery.

Ukraine's relatively poor ranking reflects the ongoing political turmoil in the far east of the country, with increased risks of forced labour, the recruitment of children for armed conflict, and the forced migration and potential exploitation of the workforce.

The Walk Free Foundation’s report Measurement, Action, Freedom 2019³ found Ukraine’s response to the modern slavery issue as ‘strong relative to wealth’. The country has moved up the rating scoring 6 points out of 10 as opposed to the previous year’s 5 points. Despite the improvements, there is still a lot of effort required from the government and the businesses to put an end to the problem.

COMPANY'S PURPOSE

Ferrexpo produces and markets premium quality iron ore pellets, vital for sustainable steel production and essential to modern life.

KEY SUPPLIERS AND CONTRACTORS/SUPPLY CHAIN

Ferrexpo’s operations are supported by a global supply chain for goods and services. This supply chain includes suppliers of raw, direct and indirect materials, skilled labour and services required for the Group’s operations, and a wide range of legal, technical and administrative professional services. The most significant expenditure is on electricity, gas, diesel fuel, spare parts, labour, explosives, and steel grinding media. The vast majority of suppliers by value are located in Ukraine.

POLICIES AND CONTROLS

Counter-party risk assessment and due diligence

Ferrexpo conducts every aspect of its work in a way that recognises and supports the human rights of employees, counterparties and every person with whom we have contact. To the extent possible, we seek to identify and address human rights risks and violations in our sphere of influence. We understand that the company’s activities impact human rights in connection with labour conditions, local community programmes and more. We engage with communities and seek to understand the social, cultural, environmental and economic implications of our activities so that we can respond to concerns, reduce impacts and optimise the benefits for the community.

³ <https://www.globallslaveryindex.org/2019/findings/foreword/>

We encourage our suppliers to follow our commitment to human rights.

If there are identified human rights breaches in relation to a customer, supplier, contractor, agent or any other person undertaking work on behalf of Ferrexpo and there is no clear commitment to corrective action, persistent inaction, or a lack of improvement, then our work with that person or entity shall cease immediately.

With respect to the workforce within Ferrexpo and entities in its supply chain, we do not permit the employment of child labour, nor do we allow forced or other forms of involuntary labour.

The Group has implemented the holistic risk management system that ensures early identification, assessment and treatment of risks.

The risk of modern slavery in Ferrexpo's supply chain is routinely considered as part of the Group's risk assessment process. There are no operations within the Ferrexpo Group which have been assessed as having a high or medium degree of risk of involuntary labour in any form occurring.

The Group performs due diligence checks on an ongoing basis to detect, assess and manage potential third-party risks, which include looking for evidence or suspicion of human rights abuses. Suppliers identified as "high risk", for whatever reason, are separately reviewed on a regular basis by the Finance, Risk Management and Compliance Committee ("FRMCC"), which decides upon risk mitigation measures or avoidance of any relations with such a supplier.

Assessing the effectiveness of steps

In 2020, no signs of modern slavery, including forced labour or human trafficking, were identified within our business or any of the Group's suppliers.

Ferrexpo has a Business Partners' Code of Conduct, which sets out Ferrexpo's requirements to its counterparties, including those related to the human rights, anti-slavery and anti-trafficking. In 2020, reference to the code was included in the majority of the supply contracts.

Compliance with Policies

Ferrexpo has a system of reporting any breaches of company policies (including the Code of Conduct which incorporates slavery and trafficking matters) available to all employees and counter-parties. Ferrexpo Integrity Line is available at <http://ferrexpo.com/IntegrityLine> and by telephone, operated by an independent provider to ensure confidentiality. In case of a suspected breach by a supplier of an anti-slavery condition, Ferrexpo's compliance and internal audit departments will investigate and, if appropriate, the contract will be terminated.

As part of its risk mitigation policy Ferrexpo aims to have a diversity of source of supply in order to avoid excessive dependence on certain suppliers, so in most cases the Group is able to change suppliers if required.

TRAININGS

To raise awareness around compliance related topics, Ferrexpo hosts its annual Compliance Week, bringing together various groups within the business for training courses in compliance and ethical leadership. The third such iteration of this event, which was a virtual conference held in May 2020 and had speakers from a number of external organisations covering topics such as Ferrexpo's values, ethical leadership, modern slavery, anti-corruption and creating a speak-up culture.

ACTIONS TO BE CARRIED OUT IN 2021

Ferrexpo will continue monitoring its supply chain for signs of forced labour or human trafficking, and implementing its requirements in the field of human rights in its relationships with the suppliers.

Training sessions related to the modern slavery issues will be held during Ferrexpo's 4th Compliance Week.

Ferrexpo will:

- continue to assess modern slavery risks before entering into contracts with suppliers and include relevant provisions in suppliers' contracts;
- conduct a formal reviewing of KYC Questionnaire for suppliers and Business Partners' Code of Conduct;
- train suppliers to mitigate modern slavery risks;
- monitor the suppliers.
